

FRYE'S COMPROMISE

An Agreement Reached on the Harbor Question.

A COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE

And Decide as Between Santa Monica and San Pedro—The Decision to Be Final.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The animated contest which has proceeded for the last four days in the senate over a deep-water harbor on the southern coast of California was brought to a close today by a compromise by the conflicting interests. The issue has been between the ports of Santa Monica, the terminus of the Southern Pacific and San Pedro, the terminus of the California Southern. Senator Frye, chairman of the committee, finally harmonized the difference by referring the determination as between Santa Monica and San Pedro to a commission to consist of three civil engineers, a naval officer and an officer of the coast survey.

Mr. Frye laid stress upon the report of Captain Taylor, showing the unique advantages of Santa Monica. The California senator (White) had, like a skillful lawyer, incorporated Captain Taylor's report in his (White's) speech in order that it might be buried in the bowels of that speech. Mr. Frye read the Taylor report and a recent telegram from Taylor, now in the war college at Newport, expressing his strong opinion favorably to Santa Monica.

The senator also read a letter from General Miles stating that in command of the division of the Pacific he had no hesitation in saying that Santa Monica had many advantages to make it a safe harbor and a good one for the coast. Mr. Frye also read a letter from General Miles stating that in command of the division of the Pacific he had no hesitation in saying that Santa Monica had many advantages to make it a safe harbor and a good one for the coast.

Concerning the White amendment, referring the question to another body, Mr. Frye said he was willing to take the one chance in ten that a board might report for San Pedro as the more important port. Mr. Frye said he was willing to take the one chance in ten that a board might report for San Pedro as the more important port.

Mr. Perkins, Republican of California, denied the suggestion that this was a contest between two persons. He read from Frye's speech that White had said he would not let the Santa Monica harbor fail, but he did not expect any senator to say then let Huntington fail.

A NEBRASKA TWISTER

Citizens Seek Safety in Cyclone Cellars.

FARMER JOHNSON'S EXPERIENCE

The Funnel Shaped Demon Destroys Buildings and Injures a Number of Persons.

OMAHA, May 12.—A special to the Star from Bismarck, Neb., says: A cyclone swept this section this afternoon. A funnel-shaped cloud shot downward from the storm center and a general stampede of citizens for caves and cellars ensued. At the school house the school children fled in panic to the furnace room amid the wildest confusion and a number of them were hurt. The cyclone struck the ground north of the town. Its course was northwest. The path of the storm was from 200 to 300 yards wide and everything in its path was razed to the ground, including several houses.

Carl Johnson, a prominent farmer, was caught in the twister. He had a team attached to a wagon. He attempted to elude the storm by driving to the west, but before he could reach his home out of the path of the rapidly approaching hurricane he was caught and his horse and wagon were carried through space with fences, posts, wire and other debris.

Johnson's clothes were literally torn from his back, and he received a number of injuries. At times the wind would raise him high in the air and drop him back to earth, only to catch him up again. In his flight he would describe a circle, and when the storm finally passed over him he was 50 yards or more distant from where the storm first struck him. The wagon was completely demolished.

After traveling a distance of about two miles the funnel-shaped cloud arose as suddenly as it had shot down to the earth, and at a point five or six miles further north, dropped again to earth, where it is feared great damage and loss of life resulted.

GOOD ROADS.

The Supervisors' Convention Devotes the Day to the Subject.

SAN JOSE, May 12.—The state convention of supervisors devoted most of its time today to the good roads question.

RESOLUTIONS WERE ADOPTED CALLING UPON THE LEGISLATURE TO CLASSIFY ROADS INTO STATE, COUNTY AND DISTRICT ROADS.

The state to maintain the second and the district the third class. Resolutions were adopted petitioning the legislature to pass a law regarding the width of roads; recommending that the legislature accept the grant of a million acres of land from the government and apply the proceeds to the betterment of roads; recommending a tax not to exceed one dollar on the hundred for the benefit of roads; recommending the continuance of the rock crushing plant at Fresno. A committee was appointed to present the resolutions to the next legislature.

INDIANS OPPOSE MINERS. The Voorhees Syndicate Likely to Have Trouble.

DENVER, Col., May 12.—A special to the News from Santa Fe, N.M., says: Word from the Navajo country is to the effect that the Black Horse and a powerful element of the Navajo tribe are opposing the invasion of the Carpio mountain gold fields by the syndicate lately organized by J. E. Voorhees, a nephew of Senator Voorhees, and others, and that trouble is likely to ensue if they undertake to mine in that region.

A company of United States troops has been ordered to the vicinity of Farmington, and all citizens entering the Navajo reservation are required to show passports from the agent, under penalty of arrest and confiscation of their effects.

ODD FELLOWS. Grand Lodge Degree Conferred Upon 475 Members.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—The grand lodge of Odd Fellows and of the Daughters of Rebekah met here today with 700 delegates belonging to the order.

The grand lodge degree was conferred upon 475 odd fellows. During the past year the assets of the Odd Fellows in the state have increased $52,000. The sum of $275,000 has been paid out of the relief fund.

STATUE UNVEILED. TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF GENERAL HANCOCK.

Addresses Devoted to Eulogies of His Manly and Soldierly Qualities.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The equestrian statue, thirty-four feet high, of General Winfield Scott Hancock was unveiled here this afternoon.

The unveiling was preceded by a military demonstration. President Cleveland made a brief address, in which he said:

"A grateful government today pays tribute to the memory of one of our country's noblest and bravest defenders. Willingly prompted by patriotic inclination, we have assembled to witness a national expression of valiant deeds in time of war and its recognition of civic virtues in time of peace. We give the monument to the dead, but the dead unites our efforts with a significant reminder of the price of peace."

Senator Palmer's address was devoted to an eulogy of the manly and soldierly qualities of General Hancock and contained a tribute to his wife, to his wife, who was his biographer.

"The military qualities of General Hancock," he said, "are well known to the country. The story of his brilliant services in the field is told in detail by biographers, but General Grant has condensed his real character and reputation into a few sentences: 'Hancock stands the most conspicuous figure of all the general officers who did not exercise a separate command. He commanded a corps longer than any other one and his name was never mentioned as having committed in battle a blunder for which he was responsible.'"

"WHITE MAHATMAS."

CLEVER CONJURING PERFORMANCE BY THE ZANZIS.

A Number of New Tricks That Bewildered a Large Crowd at the Barton.

The Zanzis produced a decided sensation at the Barton last night by duplicating nearly all the five day's tricks and adding some new illusions that sent the audience home greatly perplexed and bewildered.

Professor and Madame Zanzis delight to call themselves the "White Mahatmas," and certainly a credulous person, after seeing their performance and reading some of the accounts of it, might be excused for believing in the stories told by Mr. Zanzis in "The Occult World," a magazine containing letters that are dropped by unseen hands into the lap of the reader at the stroke of a magic wand.

The Zanzis last night performed a trick which, and only a trick, which it would be very hard for any ordinary person to explain how the lady could call out the names of a dozen or more persons in the audience who had written questions on slips of paper, and put them in their pockets, never allowing the slip to go out of their position. Madame Zanzis not only gave the name of the questioner and question, but also the answer to the question, which was frequently very amusing and appropriate. One lady asked "Who will be my next husband?" and the reply provoked a laugh of applause all over the house.

The state writing was very well done. Professor Zanzis took two slates; placed them on both sides of the audience, and a committee of inspection and handed them to one of the committee, who tightly bound them together with a string. A gentleman in the audience selected a page at random from a book of names. A few lines were read. The sound of scratching was heard and the exact words found written on the inner surfaces of the slates, which had never passed out of the committee man's hands.

The well known but always mysterious cabinet trick was performed with a lady from the audience as a committee to "see him." The bewildering development when Madame Zanzis escaped in ten seconds from a bag locked and sealed by the committee, while her husband, who was standing beside the box, was found in her place.

The old sleight of hand tricks, which Herman Zanzis has performed since he was a boy, were done quite as deftly by Professor Zanzis and his "palming" was remarkably deft and neat. The dancing skeleton, the mechanical hand that plays out answers to a glass globe and the other various tricks of Madame Zanzis are familiar tricks to those who have made a study of the "black art," but they utterly perplexed the crowd last night. Thick as a whole the performance was a very interesting one, and it is to the advantage of the audience that Professor Zanzis speaks English well and easily. The performance will be sufficiently attractive till the closing day. M. M. Meyer presided at the piano, and was frequently enquired.

LETTER FROM REEDLEY.

Co-operation Among Raisin Growers.

Editorial:—Co-operation is the watchword in Reedley just now. Twenty-four of our representative fruit and raisin growers have signified by their action that they believe it is the best possible solution of the question of raisin prices.

They say that it is a better plan for them to pursue than the "Fresno plan," for in addition to the certainty of obtaining good prices they have such a large percentage in the cost of packing by doing the work themselves which is also so much better for the town than either hauling them off to be worked in some other town or allowing the raisin commission packers to come in and make at least a handsome profit upon the packing here to spend the money elsewhere.

The second meeting held here last Friday at the Clubhouse for the purpose of organizing, was largely attended by people from Dinuba, Traver and River bank who took a deep interest in the proceedings. They made arrangements to meet at the Clubhouse to address the people in Dinuba and Orosi with a view of increasing the popularity of the movement in those places. A large number of cooperative houses already established two years ago while a start was made in the former last year. Traver will probably also come into the movement.

The Raisin Co-operative Packing Association, the name of one house enterprise, will hold a meeting next Saturday to enact the by-laws governing the company. Grape vines in this vicinity are putting out nicely again. Not many of our vineyardists, as far as I have learned, have been able to get a good start in the vines. Some of the vines are beginning to show the effect of the big freeze by turning black at the stone. The damage, however, to the fruit here will not amount to much more than a slight overgrowth of "hanging out."

Grafting looks well, but needs rain to be well filled, especially winter sowing. Most of the summer fallow will yield a fine harvest. A late fall is falling fast on every where the farmers think it the kind of hay weather.

Mr. Wakefield, who has charge of the "Raisin" game" at the corner of the Valley road here, says he expects to be through and gone by this time, but informed us today that he will be here several days yet, and that he will have to be driven, on an average, about thirty-five feet deep.

Our school, after a very successful term, closes Friday with appropriate exercises in the morning, and a picnic on the river bank. Our graduating class and ladies feel very proud of their diplomas recently received. Reedley contributed no quota after all to the party expedition to Alaska, though several of our townsmen talked very strongly in the early winter months of joining. However some of them had let off steam in some kind of a gold mine. Fred W. Green and Al. Muehl hit upon their team and struck out for Kern county and Tinner Davis and partner went up Mill creek in this county for a short trip, after which they will head for Nevada.

E. A. Mower, who for two years past has so capably filled the position of superintendent at the "Syndicate," as Reedleyites call the California Fruit and Wine Land Company, has resigned and left for a brief visit to his old home in Bangor, Me. He carries the best wishes of all our people.

E. Winnes, one of our thriving merchants, took advantage of Old Fellow exemption rates to make a trip to San Francisco, combining business with pleasure. His wife accompanied him.

Mrs. Will Day is recovering from a very severe illness.

Mrs. F. S. Kusner, our popular post-mistress, has returned from a long journey in San Francisco under a very good escort. Her many friends rejoice that she is now on the high road to recovery.

Horace Leyou, who has been visiting in Gilroy the past three or four weeks, has left and reports crops fine in Santa Clara valley.

Visit to Madera County.

Last Friday a party consisting of Mrs. R. N. Barlow, O. W. Beardslee, H. R. Roff, L. Foster, James and George Barlow, visited the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bleck near Madera. It was the closing day of the district school at that place, and in addition to other entertainment there was a dance. Refreshments were served.

Lecture by George E. Church.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon George E. Church will deliver a lecture at the high school assembly room. The subject will be The Heidelberg castle. It is the lecture recently delivered before the Parish League club. Parents and their friends are invited to attend and are requested to
